THE LIBRARY. - Next to the city debt in importance and interest comes the Library. All public institutions that have for their object the bettering of men, should receive not only sanction but support. For the past three or four years the city Library has not advanced at all, and it is owing to the fact that the public, which is indebted mostly to it, has not come forward and assisted in many ways. There are ways without number by which appreciation of the advantages to be derived from the Library could be shown. If all cannot be stockholders all can certainly attend lectures, festivals and readings, given for the benefit of the Library. In this matter, as in many others, the people of the city are dereliet in one most important point, that is energy. When it is considered what a valuable opportunity is here offered, both to improve the mind and help a cause that should stand next in the affections to home, all should be ashamed that such a state of al fairs should exist. Virginians who are so proud, and rightly too, of their glorious past, with its almost classic memories, allow this time honored institution to go dewo. Those who love home will love its surroundings and associations. Who does not revere the memories that lie nearest their hearts in connection with old Alex ardria? How many in this wide world turn to her as their Mccea? Everything that tends to her good should receive support and a God speed from every heart that loves her. It is said that she has no future, then friends should honor her past, and if Ichabod is to be written upon her future let other hands do it. It was noticed a day or two ago that Dr. O. W. Bagby, a native Virginian, would deliver a lecture at Peabody Hall, in this city, on Friday evening, for the benefit of the Alexandria Library. His subject will be, "The Virginia Negro." The character of the subject and the reputation of Dr. Bagby, are enough to guarantee a large audience. The press everywhere the doctor has lectured is loud in his praise, both in the North and South. It is hoped that the worthy public will remember the of jeet and attend, by the doing of which the Library will be greatly encouraged and built up.

Political Discussion, -- A political meeting was held at the colored school, Convalescent Camp, last evening, which was addressed by the conservative candidates for the House of Delegates, and by J. W. Greene John B. Syphax and R. B. Hopkins. The conservative candidates were present by invitation from some of the colored men of that vicinity, and Messrs. Syphax, Greene and Motter, hearing of the meeting, went out uninvited to attend the same. Some 50 or 75 men, white and colored, were present, and after the house was called to order Mr. Mushbach challenged Messrs. Greene and Syphax to a joint discussion, allowing each of them one half of an hour and closing himself. This was agreed to. Mr. Hunter opened lican candidate for the House of Delegates, J. W. Green, Mr. Mushbach and R. B. Hopkins. The discussion developed the fact that a large number of the colored men of Alexandria county are in sympathy with the conservative cause and determined at this election to vote for its candi-
